Run 2406

The pack gathered at the heavenly heights of the area of the saints. A strong pack turned up with plenty of visitors. We were graced with the presence of Soft n Creamy, Battersav all the way from South Korea and Karma Sutra and partner Bruno (Mars). What's that book again, Men are from Mars and Women from Venus, and few other slack bastards not worth mentioning because they can't get their asses to hash every week. Speaking of John Gray and his book Men are from Mars and Women are from Venus, an old girlfriend once left me a note on the fridge which read,

"It's not working, I can't take it anymore. I'm going back to my Mum's place!" So I opened the fridge, the light came on, and the beer was cold... what the hell was she talking about???

I never did get dinner that night...

Anyway, runners and walkers were sent towards the city, eventually crossing over the Ross Creek, with a drink stop behind Reid Park. Mixed commits about the concoction for the drink stop, however I for one went back for seconds, and maybe thirds... Walking is thirsty stuff...

Back at the trailer, there was a bit of a show and tell by the over-achieving pricks that did the team marathon challenge at the McDonalds Townsville Running Festival (Plug for the major sponsor). Apparently, the over-achievers secured 3rd place in the men's team challenge. Now most (if not all) of you wouldn't know this, but I had a behind the scenes role for the running festival, and I'm sorry to say this but there were only 3 men's teams competing. So that makes our over-achievers effectively last... But true to form of being inclusive and not wanting to hurt people's "feelings" the organisers, (against my protests) awarded the over-achievers a trophy for coming third. NOT LAST as it should've been... As far as who won what prizes for the raffles, WHO F*#KING CARES, I didn't win it so it not relevant. Quite a number of charges were given and a joke from Bruno, which had the pack in raptures, and nosh was served.

I small note on the nosh. Who would've thought that you could take a mix mash of different foods and turn it into a culinary masterpiece. Well done Gash and Slash. A great night overall.
