Run Report 2563

The Blowback blues – Run 2563

Another Monday night and another Hash run, the highlight of my week.

The pack gathered at Chauncy Crescent. As per tradition the pack was sent off at 6:00pm into the evening. Some ran, others trotted and walked.

But the bulk of the pack remained close to the trailer, including me.

I wasn't privy to whether the trail was anything spectacular, however, I can only imagine that it was worthy of a Hash trail with plenty of marks, checks and false trails.

I heard the run was about 5km long but was there a drink stop? I think not... I heard a rumour that Cuttlefish is still having issues reading maps.

It wasn't long before the pack arrived back to quench their well earned thirst, and what a thirst it was.

Beer was consumed and bullshit flowed.

GM called the circle and there were charges aplenty. I feel sorry for the GM as he is unlikely to have any intimate moments with Bot Bot in the near future after he sat her on the ice.

Others too shared the cooling effects of ice between their arse cheeks including Clitus, Blowback and me.

Sometimes it pays not to be so vocal about why the GM wanted a volunteer, turns out I was correct that the volunteer was for someone to be the scribe.

But the upside of that is I managed to get shouted a beer in anticipation of my rather poor scribe efforts.

Visitors to Townsville Hash was Metro, who joined us at our celebration run. Beer hunter hash provided an update to the price of beer at Toms Taven, of $4.25 a schooner.

The prick of the week shirt was handed to Oral C, and for the life of me I have no idea who Nex Weak passed the Erectus to...

After the circle finished, the pack were treated to a fabulous feed. After the feed, the pack quickly dispersed, leaving the committed to try and drink the trailer dry.

Thank you Blowback and Cop it, another worthy Monday night of hash.
